

Abstract

The present invention provides compositions comprising a cationically curable component and a substantially compatible free radical polymerizable component. Compatible free radical polymerizable components include alkoxyated free radical polymerizable components. Objects obtained by curing the present compositions, for instance by rapid prototyping the compositions, have an improved clarity.